The Local Area Unemployment Statistics (LAUS) annual averages have been updated and revised to account for data changes for the metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs) and the micropolitan areas. This issue of the LMR will provide the annual average labor force data for the state, the MSAs, and the micropolitan areas. (See the table on Page 2.) The individual counties are not included in this month's LMR. For a complete accounting, you may visit our Web site at www.state.tn.us/labor-wfd/AnnAvgEstimates.pdf.

The statewide unemployment rate in 2005 was 5.6 percent, up 0.1 percent from the previous year. From 2003 until 2004, the Tennessee rate decreased from 5.7 percent to 5.5 percent. The United States' unemployment rate went from 5.5 percent in 2004 to 5.1 percent in 2005. This is the first year since 1997 that the annual average unemployment rate in Tennessee is higher than the national rate.

Metropolitan Areas

During the past year, total employment increased in all the Tennessee MSAs except Cleveland, where it remained unchanged. Total employment decreased from 2003 to 2004 in only Kingsport and Memphis. The unemployment rate decreased each year from 2003 to 2005 in the Johnson City and Kingsport MSAs. The unemployment rate increased from 2004 to 2005 in Chattanooga, Clarksville, Cleveland, Knoxville, Memphis, and Nashville. The rate remained the same in Jackson and Morristown.

From 2003 to 2004, the unemployment rate increased in the Chattanooga and Memphis MSAs. It decreased during the same period in Clarksville, Cleveland, Jackson, Johnson City, Kingsport, Morristown, and Nashville. It remained the same in Knoxville.

Last year, the metropolitan areas with the lowest unemployment rates were Knoxville and Nashville at 4.4 percent. The Knoxville MSA had the lowest unemployment rate for three consecutive years. The Memphis MSA had the highest rate in 2005 at 6.2 percent and the highest rate in 2004 at 6.1 percent. In 2003, Morristown MSA had the highest percentage at 6.4 percent.

Micropolitan Areas

The micropolitan areas are new designations based on the 2000 census that have at least one urban cluster of greater than 10,000 but less than 50,000 population, plus adjacent counties with a high degree of social and economic integration.

Of the 20 new micropolitan areas, only three include multiple counties. They are Cookeville (Jackson, Overton, and Putnam counties), Tullahoma (Coffee, Franklin, and Moore counties), and Union City, TN-KY (Obion County, TN and Fulton County, KY).

During the past year, the total employment increased in Athens, Crossville, Hariman, LaFollette, Newport, Sevierville, and Shelbyville. During this time period, all of the MSAs had increased employment while only a fraction (35 percent) of the micropolitan areas showed the same increase. The remaining micropolitan areas all had declining employment.
